Alex Taylor has stolen diamonds that were intended for the purchase of British weapons by an unnamed African government, as part of an undercover operation.

Taylor is an SAS sergeant at the end of a twenty-year career, on assignment with this MI6 mission. After stealing the diamonds he is on the run, alone to start with but not without resources.

With the arrival of his friend Ari Lieberman, and expecting assistance from contacts and benefactors that he has built over the years, Taylor believes he has a better than even chance of selling the diamonds and disappearing.

His escape takes him the length of East Africa, from Johannesburg to Cairo, in search of a buyer for the stolen diamonds. In the process he must evade his pursuers that include British and American security services as well as mercenaries working for the Africans that he has robbed.
