Excerpt from Considerations on the Eucharist: Viewed as the Generative Dogma of Catholic Piety, Translated From the French of the Abbé Ph; Gerbet

This work is neither a dogmatical treatise, nor a book of devotion, but something intermediate, belonging to a class which forms the link that unites these two orders of ideas.

Religion nourishes the understanding with truth and the heart with sentiment. Hence there are two modes of viewing it - the one rational - the other edifying. From this two-fold aspect there arises another point of view, in which we consider the connexion of truths in relation to the developement of love in the human soul. It is in this light we are about to view the mystery on which Catholic worship is based, In the first place, we observe that the Eucharistic dogma, is the complement of the primitive faith and worship of mankind; so that its detachment from religion would destroy the beautiful harmony of all the truths of which the latter is constituted.
